

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Embodiments of the present invention quantify lengthwise shrinkage to a higher degree of accuracy over currently known methods by employing reactive force values, such as stiffness measurements, in conjunction with motive force values, such as 5 chemical composition, of the wood product.